Schoeneck, 2011-February

Homeopathy, free of dangerous Side effects!

This is what opponents of homeopathy prove with a strange stunt they perform on Feb 5th 2011. Organized Skeptics, apart from that occupied with such important questions as the non-existence of UFOs, will take on 5th of Feb at 10:23h an overdose of a homeopathic medicine in front of chosen pharmacies of several countries. What they intend is to prove is the ineffectiveness of homeopathy: „There is nothing in it“. Exactly this is written on the caps which some of the demonstrators wear on their heads

This matches to the skeptics also demonstrating their lack of knowledge of homeopathy. Homeopathy is a regulation therapy and makes use of highly specific stimuli. A homeopathic medicine that does not have a clear relation to a given health impairment of a given individual, usually will not have any effect when taken only once. Also not when the whole bottle is taken, because homeopathy is individual medicine. Some people may develop so called homeopathic proving symptoms. In most cases, such proving symptoms are rather subtle.

Involuntarily, these people mainly show one thing: Homeopathic medicines are safe. In contrary to chemical medicines, whose dangerous side effects kill year by year thousands of people in Europe.

Anyhow we recommend: Please do not reproduce such medicine stunts at home!
