

The impact of EU law on national health policy is still increasing.

Together, the EU and national Health Authorities have developed an integrated health strategy for Europe. It seems that only a scientific based CAM will survive this process. On the other hand traditional practioneering is suspected to be a high level risk for the patient. Therefore the most important thing in case of consumerprotection is today: No risk!

The 2008 ANME Symposium will continue it's sucessful way: Once to present the actual position of complimentary and alternative medicine (CAM) and twice the exchange of knowledge and the possibility for networking.
